

SSI Varshney Award

The Raj Kumar Varshney Award in Systems Theory has been established by Systems society of India for exceptional contributions to systems science, application, and technology.

This award is named in honour of Dr. Rajkumar Varshney, the founding Secretary of the Systems Society of India, who made contributions in the field of systems research spanning applications areas in plant science, epidemiology, and agricultural economics.

The nomination can be submitted to the Secretary, Systems Society of India with a CV of the nominee. The nomination is presented to a committee which makes recommendation to the executive committee of SSI. The award is generally given during the National Systems Conference.